

Questions about research strategies

Some things we'd like to know about research:

- ①. What is the step by step procedure to using the Harriet Irving Library resource?
- ②. Who are the intended users of Google Scholar?
- ③. What classifies as a generalized search term and what classifies as a specified search term?

English 1006T
23 October 2012

Questions about research strategies

Some things we'd like to know about research:

- How do you use the Harriet Irving Library Journals and newspapers website?

- What are the benefits to using Google Scholar, instead of just Google?

Questions about research strategies

Some things we'd like to know about research:

• Why are people allowed to put information that isn't real on Wikipedia?

- How can we know when to trust a source.
- How do you cite things
- Should you list your citations in chronological order based on the order they come up as in your paper/report etc...

Questions about research strategies

Some things we'd like to know about research:

- ① Why are some websites considered more creditable than others?
- ② What is the purpose of Google Scholar?
- ~~③ What is the~~
- ③ Is there a "right" and "wrong" way to do research?

Questions about research strategies

Some things we'd like to know about research:

- How can you find good sources on google scholar?
- How do you know if something on wikipedia is real or not?